Jeff,

I was out of the office and catching up on emails. Our experts are still running tools to see if they can decrypt the image. When that process is complete, we will let you know and can return the images at that time. Thus far, they have not been able to decrypt the image.

Regarding your second question, we are not going to share our privileged communications or work product with you.

Thanks,
Hong-An

Thanks Hong-An.

To be clear, you stated that your forensic team couldn't obtain any additional information. Was anyone else able to? Specifically, please confirm you did not consult with Mr. Levandowski in any way relating to this exercise, and that no one, including but not limited to your forensic team, was able to obtain any additional information or decrypt the G-laptop.

Once you've confirmed that, you have Quinn Emanuel's permission to have Duff & Phelps destroy the images, and certify to their destruction, in accordance with the protocol.

Thanks,
Jeff

Hi Jeff,

Sorry, I've been out of the office the last few days. Our forensic team was not able to obtain any additional information from the images or decrypt the G-laptop.

Thanks,
Hong-An

Hong-An,

It's been ten days since you imaged Anthony Levandowski's hard drives. Can you give a progress update?

Thanks,
Jeff
